Hustling Huddleston Student of the Month

by:Bailey Scoggins

Huddleston hustles to student of the month. Jadon Huddleston, high school junior, was selected as October student of the month. Jadon is the son of Jason and Nikki Huddleston.

In his free time, he does his homework and studies for tests. He also goes fishing and shoots hoops with his friends. Jadon hopes to pursue a medical career after high school.

When he found out he was student of the month, his reaction was “I feel amazed, I could not believe I got it.” Jadon is a very hardworking student and never stops trying.

When GP students were asked why they thought Jadon deserved to be student of the month, Clayton White, high school senior said, “He respects his teachers and other students around him. He is also a great friend and will always drop what he is doing just to help you.”

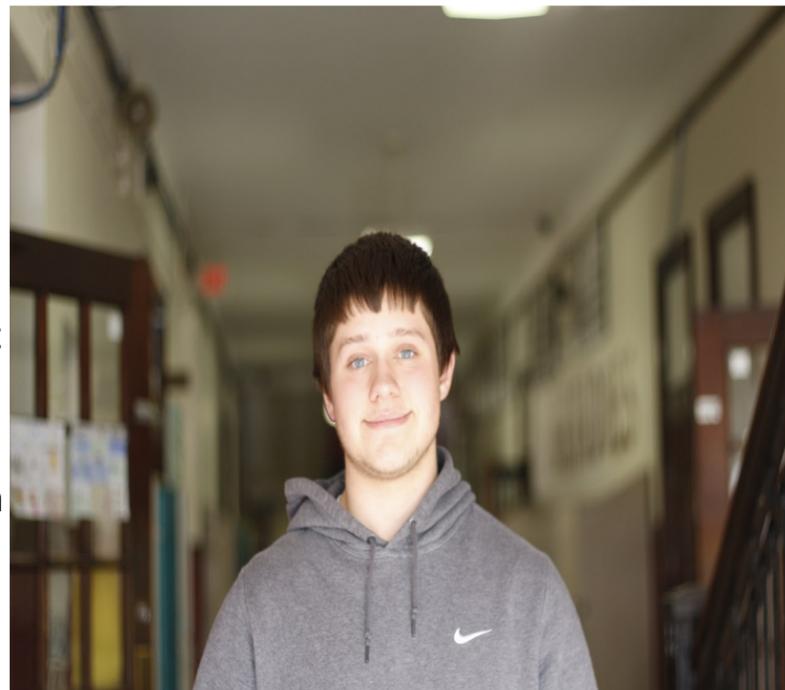

Nathan Walston, high school junior, said “He is hardworking and always gets good grades.”

Kaylie Scoggins, high school junior, added, “He always ask what the homework is, because he wants to make sure he does not miss anything.”

Jadon’s advice to other students who want to be student of the month is, “Always try your hardest at everything. Hard work pays off. Always try to be a better person than you were yesterday.

To the freshmen, cherish every moment you have here, make memories and friends. Before you know it high school will be gone in a blink of an eye. Always try to be involved in extracurricular activities as much as you can.

Always be respectful to your peers and especially your teachers; you will need them one of these days. Last, always be the bigger person.”

Mrs. Bingham and the Golden Apple Award

By: Paige Syrcle

Recently, Kristine Bingham, teacher at GP, won the WGEM Golden Apple Award. Bingham teaches fourth grade and has been a teacher for many years and she also sponsors the cheerleading squad.

When we asked her how she felt about winning she said “I feel very honored and very surprised.” Mrs. Bingham has been battling cancer so she had to find out how to manage that and to teach at the same time.

She feels she won this award because “it was the fight through cancer but I missed very little days at the school. She missed very little days because the kids needed her here and she needed to think about something else besides cancer.

She felt that her students were very happy and excited that she won this award.” Jeff Bourne, Principal at

GP, added, “I’m very proud and happy of her. She’s been teaching at this school for a long time because she is great at her job.”

Bourne said “I believe she got this award due to her commitment for her students and the Griggsville-Perry School.”

Getting Spooky: Haunted House Review

By: Kaylie Scoggins

There are things bumpin, jumpin, twistin, turnin, and screamin. One of the most lit haunted houses near Pike County is in Hannibal, Jaycees: The Warehouse of Nightmares.

As soon as you walk in the park you see tons of people...and clowns. The clowns will come up to you and try to get you in the haunted house mood. It costs $10 a person and it is every Friday and Saturday in October.

After the 30 minute long wait in line the anticipation is high. Everyone is ready to have people scream in their faces.

When you first walk in you have 3 seconds to find the right door to move onto the next room. After that, you walk to find your way in the dark.

You go through several rooms before you come to hallway where the walls are closing in. If you are claustrophobic then I do not recommend this.

This is a tremendous haunted house. It is truly scary, not cheesy. I recommend it to anyone who wants a scare.

Pledge comes to GP

by Kailyn Waugh and Alison Huntley

In past years the Griggsville Perry staff has discussed about bringing back the pledge to G-P and it finally came back this week!

Cathy McDaniel, Secretary, said, "Mr. Bourne told me that we were going to bring it back".

She also said "that they will put it over the intercom and the helpers in the office and the staff will be saying the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mr. Bourne, Principal, said, "It was brought to my attention that almost every school does it so we should also." When asked how it would be organized, Bourne said the office staff will organize it by having the pledge and then having the announcements after the tardy bell.

A difficulty that concerns Bourne is having the teachers and staff turn in the announcements before 8:15 a.m. Although saying the pledge will at least cut into about five to ten minutes of first hour it is for a good reason.

Teen Wolf is back!

By Kaylie Scoggins

On November 15 the world will be blessed again.

Teen Wolf comes back on! But, with its arrival also comes the end, as it is the final season. Fans have been waiting for Teen Wolf to come back for 7 long, agonizing months.

In Season 6, viewers are going to face many heartbreaking challenges. Stiles (Dylan O'Brien) has to face the problem of being erased from history. Oh No!! We also have the arrival of some new villains in the town Beacon Hills. Over the course of 20 episodes, we will see how the group of friends stick together to save each other, and themselves.

As an invested fan, I am literally heart broken that this is the last season. This is my all-time favorite show, as many already know. I have no idea what I am going to do with my Tuesday nights when the season ends.

THE CURSE IS BROKEN!

Good Job, Cubs!!!
